

Message from Alamo Resident Carole Brown

My husband and I are new residents of Alamo. We moved here because of the convenience and the wonderful weather. After reading an article in Alamo Today, I was upset to hear that Furbelows is closing and I'm told others will follow. It's amazing to me that in a time when our economy is weak, property owners raise rents. Isn't it better to have a business occupy a space rather than to allow the space to remain empty? I've noticed that there are many other spaces that are also vacant. I have found it necessary to travel into Danville to shop rather than to shop locally.

I wonder if we should have moved to Danville instead of Alamo? If the situation at the commercial center becomes worse we will all be forced to travel out of town to shop.

I have talked to friends and neighbors and everyone seems to share my sentiments.

Thanks for listening.
